Welcome

Being diagnosed with cancer can have a huge impact on everyone's life, but there is help and support available.

The issues that you may struggle with will vary from person to person but they are not all about the treatment.

This booklet aims to help signpost people affected by cancer to services or information which can help you at this difficult time.

This Information Guide has been kindly sponsored by the Rosemere Cancer Foundation

Some of the information in this booklet may well have changed since we went to press. Please let us know if you see anything that is incorrect in this booklet so that we may address this.

If you can't find what you're looking for in this booklet, or require further information around cancer services, please contact the Cancer Partnership Group.

Things to consider

Increasingly, cancer is considered a long term illness and therefore there are issues and aspects you may have to think about or even things you haven't thought were important, which may be.

You may want to consider the options, support and information available to you around the following areas:

Financial and Legal

This can include:

- Credit arrangements
- Joint property / investments
- Policies
- Welfare benefits

We recommend that you or the person you are supporting should consider getting a benefit review done, as you may be entitled to financial payments. Irrespective of your financial situation these monies can be very helpful. There are organisations able to provide this service free of charge; Age UK, Welfare Rights to name but two.

Some payments are not means tested, so this means that no matter what your income or savings, if you qualify for those entitlements they will be paid.

Another potentially helpful contact might be:

Community Legal Advice

Provides a free and confidential advice service paid for by legal aid.

0845 345 4345

Calls from 4p/min or they can call you back

Employment

This can mean:

- Contract of Employment
- Death in service pay
- Discrimination
- Industrial disease
- Occupational Pension
- Reduction of hours / phased return
- Self employment
- Statutory sick pay
- Tax rebate
- Terminate employment
- Time off
- Unfair dismissal

There are organisations that specialise in supporting people with long term illnesses in dealing with their employment situation. But your first contact should be with your employer / human resources department.

One organisation that can help with pension advice is:

Pensions Advisory Service

Provides free information, advice and guidance on the whole spectrum of pensions, including state, company, personal and stakeholder schemes.

NHS Services

NHS cancer care is delivered in a multi-disciplinary team approach. This means with healthcare staff in all areas working together to reach a diagnosis, agree a treatment plan, and deliver appropriate care for you.

These multi-disciplinary teams include Clinical Nurse Specialists who are available to provide information and support to patients and their carers. Nurses can be based at the hospital and / or in the community and provide a link between patients, carers and other healthcare workers.

Cancer Clinical Nurse Specialists

The University Hospitals of Morecambe Bay NHS Trust has nurses who specialise in the following types of cancer:

Bladder	Bowel	Breast	Cervical
Head	Leukaemia	Liver	Lung
Lymphoma	Myeloma	Neck	Oesophagus
Ovarian	Pancreas	Prostate	Skin
Stomach	Testicular	Thyroid	Womb

The Nurse Specialists work alongside other healthcare workers, for example consultants, GPs, district and hospital nurses, physiotherapists, pharmacists and dieticians. If you have not already seen a Specialist Nurse and would like to, please ask one of the healthcare team looking after you.

Not all patients have a Clinical Nurse Specialist. If you have a type of cancer not mentioned above, please do not hesitate to ask your hospital doctor, nurse or GP for further advice and support.

Macmillan Specialist Palliative Care Nurses

As well as nurses who specialise in a particular cancer type, Specialist Palliative Care Nurses offer holistic care to patients with advanced or progressing illness. This includes management of pain and other symptoms and provision of psychological, social and spiritual support. The aim of palliative care is to achieve the best quality of life for patients and their families.

Cancer Help offers free, confidential help and advice for all those affected by cancer – including patients, carers, friends and family – through their two bases: Vine House in Preston and Croston House in Garstang.

From the time of diagnosis, fully trained staff can provide help and advice on all aspects of cancer. The aim is to improve the quality of life for patients and their carers by offering emotional, physical and social support. All services are free of charge and available to anyone regardless of age or race. Confidentiality is assured.

Macmillan / Citizens Advice Bureau Benefits Project

This service is available to South Cumbria residents and advises people affected by cancer, their families and carers on the full range of both means tested and non-means tested benefits, and tax credits. (By means tested we mean taking into account someone's income and savings in making a decision about whether they qualify for benefits.)

The adviser can assist with form filling, revisions and appeals and may be able to represent clients at tribunals. There is usually a higher success rate for claims being successful when a Benefits Advisor has been involved with the paperwork. The service is delivered to people in their homes, at the bureau, or in a healthcare setting, whichever is convenient for them.
